

Waveland group studies revenue sources in city

BY AMY PICKICH

Waveland Alderman appointed the first members of a special committee to study ways to produce revenues for the city. Those appointed included Armand Jonte' and Joan Orlin, Ward Two; Derek Breerwood and Marie Mitchell, Ward Three, and Joe Albee and Lionel Bourgeois, Ward Four, with alternate Tommy Kidd.

Mayor Stella Frilot, who was absent from Wednesday's meeting, and Ward One alderman Barbara Rappold have yet to appoint members.

Alderman Curtis Colson, who suggested the special committee, said the group is expected to begin meeting around the first of November and will make recommendations to the board and mayor around the middle of January.

Colson cited a number of factors for forming the committee, including a recent evaluation of the city's finances by auditors Moore and Powell. The firm recommended the city look into finding alternative money sources.

"With casinos coming into the area, more expenses are imposed on our city. And with increasing expenses, we have to increase revenues," Colson said.

"I'm hoping this committee will put together a comprehensive plan to do a number of things for the city, but we need an overall plan."

The committee will also look into street paving, drainage, sewerage, development and renovation plans for the city.

Developer Michael Thompson requested clarification from the board concerning a Bismark Street property being located 20 or 50 ft. from another property. Thompson also discussed the partial abandonment of Bismark Street if necessary.

Board attorney Lucien Gex said he would check titles to see if the street belongs to the city or not.

In other matters the board approved:

—the mayor to sign the Mississippi Municipal Compliance questionnaire as required by the Miss. State Auditor's office;

—a temporary mobile trailer behind with electrical hook up behind the Port and Harbor Commission office for some 90 days for Calgon Carbon training classes; and —Jerry L. Fedele as a taxi driver for "Taxi" Cabs, Inc.

Seasonal preparations

Get your flu shot early this year

BY AMY PICKICH

Some say the best way to get a jump on the fast-approaching holiday season is to begin preparations early.

And according to Debbie Cumberland, Hancock County Health Department head nurse, the same applies to this year's flu season.

Cumberland encourages the public to take precautions early by receiving a vaccination, which she said has little or no side effects.

"We've been busy and I'm really glad we've been busy this early," Cumberland said. "Our doctor said its going to be an early season."

SHOT SCHEDULE

The Hancock County Health Department administers flu shots 8-11 a.m. and 1-3 p.m. Mondays and Wednesdays. The cost of the shot is $6, which can be paid through Medicaid or Medicare.

Cumberland said they will work something out if a person cannot afford the shot.

According to the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services, the flu season in the United States usually occurs from about November to April. On average, they report thousands die each year from the flu or related complications.

At the health department, Cumberland said the staff began administering influenza shots around the first of October and will continue until about January or February.

According to the American Lung Association, shots should be administered beginning Oct. 15 through Nov. 15.

"We've gotten a head start, and we're proud of that," Cumberland said.

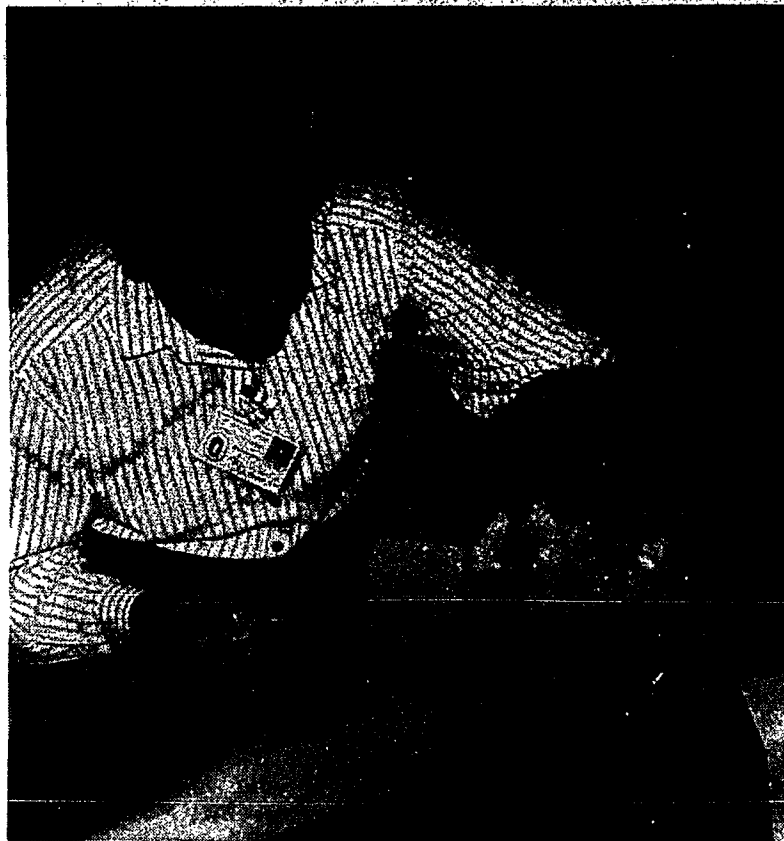

FLU FACTS

Influenza is a viral infection of the nose, throat, bronchial tubes and lungs that can make anyone of any age ill. Symptoms include fever, chills, cough and soreness and aching in the back, arms and legs, which can last only a few days or become a serious illness.

The Department of Health and Human Services recommends the vaccination for anyone who wishes to reduce their chances of catching the flu.

They especially recommend the vaccination for the elderly and those with other health problems who are more likely to become ill; health care staff, personnel and volunteers; students or other persons in schools or colleges where outbreaks could occur; and those

P&H director resigns citing 'personal reasons'

Hancock County Port and Harbor Commission president Dave McDonald announced the Friday resignation of executive director Harold "Buz" Olsen.

Olsen cited 'personal reasons' for his resignation from the post he has held since 1987.

McDonald declined further comment other than saying the commission accepted his resignation "with regret."

There are rumors circulating of an investigation by the district attorney's office.

Is your workplace smoke-free?

If so, Coast Electric Power Association and the American Cancer Society wish to congratulate you. A recognition breakfast is planned November 18, the morning of the annual Great American Smokeout.

The Smokeout is the American Cancer Society's target day to encourage the public to stop smoking "for a day."

Oncologist Dr. Ed Davidson will discuss the benefits of a smoke-free environment following a welcome address by Coast Electric president Bob Occhi.

Representatives from each business will be presented with a balloon bouquet, plaque, coffee mug and certificate.

"We want to continue awareness of the effects of a smoke-free workplace," said Coast Electric Human Resources director Marilyn Sefton. "Although smoking may be prohibited in a building, employees may be going outside to smoke. We would like to help them stop smoking."

Coast Electric, which officially became smoke-free June 1, has been an advocate of a healthy work environment for some time. According to Sefton, the company's 180 employees were notified six months prior that the ashtrays were being removed.

Freshstart, the American Cancer Society's two-week smoking cessation program, was offered for interested employees. "There are a number of tools to give employees support and the incentive to quit smoking," said Sefton.

"We've really had no complaints. Some wanted to quit, and this helped them along; if

GE Plastics receives OSHA Star Award

BY ELLIS CUEVAS
GE Plastics at Port Bienville Industrial Park was presented the highest health and safety award Thursday by the U.S. Department of Labor.

The Star Award presentation was made by Charlie J. Anderson, Region IV assistant administrator, U.S. Department of Labor Occupational Safety and Health Administration.

GE Plastics in Hancock County is a joint venture between GE Plastics and Huntsman Chemical Corporation.

Steve Grover, plant manager, said, "Good safety management programs go far beyond simply complying with traditional OSHA standards. The Voluntary Protection Program is an excellent example of a concept that recognizes the value of employee involvement in their own safety and health programs and rewards their achievements."

Jeffrey R. Immelt, vice president GE Plastics/Americas, told employees, "It says a lot about the way you operate each day. The award says a lot about you, the way you carry yourself as a team."

Ronald A. Rasband, president and chief operating officer, Huntsman Chemical Corporation, stated, "We have to celebrate with you on the reception of the award. I am proud to be connected with you."

GE Plastics became only the fourth work site in Mississippi and the 116th in all of the U.S. to receive the OSHA Star Award.

Grover said, "We didn't adopt the program to win a flag. Our goal is to protect every employee, and the best way we know how is to get them involved in the process."

David McDonald, Hancock County Port & Harbor Commission president, Friday said, "The GE Plastics plant has always been what might be called the 'flagship' of the Port Bienville Industrial Park. The Port & Harbor Commission is very proud of this fine plant and personnel to have received such a prestigious award."

OSHA's Voluntary Protection Program is designed to recognize and promote effective safety and health management by establishing a cooperative relationship among business leadership, operating employees and OSHA. Once the Star Award is issued, OSHA will periodically confirm that the site continues to meet the program's stringent criteria.

The Hancock industry employees 75 people with 70 contractors employed by support service companies. The plant has operated under the participative, self-directed style of management since its opening in 1981.

The facility produces a plastic resin that is distributed to other GE Plastics manufacturing sites where it is a building block for ABS engineering thermoplastic.

ABS resins are widely used in electrical, electronics, automobile and the building and construction industries worldwide.

traveling to the tropics anytime or to countries south of the equator between April and September.

Since viruses that cause the flu often change, people who have been infected or given a flu shot in previous years may become infected with a new strain. Thus, any immunity produced by the flu shot will possibly decrease in the year after vaccination.

The vaccine will provide protective effects after about one or two weeks. Flu shots will not fully protect all persons against the flu or against illnesses that resemble the flu.

Just to be on the safe side, Cumberland said she recommends a flu shot every year.

She recommends the shot this year especially, since the virus is a particularly bad strain. She said that some cases were already reported in New Orleans.

Dr. Eric Dahl at the University of Mississippi's Student Health Center expects this season to be one of the worst in years.

"Last year we had a relatively mild flu epidemic, but it was influenza type B," Dahl said. "This year's flu is influenza A, a much more serious type of flu which can be deadly."

SURVIVAL TIPS

Dahl offered some tips to survive this year's flu season:

—Get a flu shot. A flu shot is the best prevention against the virus, especially for those who have pre-existing conditions, such as diabetes, asthma, heart disease, arthritis or any chronic illness. The vaccine requires two weeks to take effect, so shots should be taken as soon as possible. This year's shot offers protection for three types of flu.

—Practice preventive habits. Eat healthy and get adequate rest. You are more likely to become ill if you are filling your body with junk food and/or are run down. If you do get sick, continue healthy routines. While food often loses its appeal when you are sick, your immune system needs nutrients (especially fluids) and plenty of rest to fight germs.

—Don't infect others. Cover your mouth when coughing or sneezing, as the virus is spread by respiratory droplets. If you are sick, don't try to work. If your children become ill, keep them at home, too. Don't expose others to germs.

—Stock up on soap. Wash hands frequently and teach your children to do the same.

—Avoid tightly crowded places. For instance, try to pass up that huge sale at the mall if you think there will be hundreds of people grabbing at bargains.

—Watch for symptoms. A sudden onset of a 102- to 104-degree fever, severe body aches and headache, chills and burning behind the breastbone are "typical" flu symptoms. Seek medical attention within 24 hours if you think you have the flu.

—Take medications. Physicians can prescribe drugs to reduce flu symptoms and decrease your chances of being contagious. Early medical attention is also necessary because, with the flu, one can often become infected with other illnesses when the system is weakened.

"QUOTABLE QUOTES"

By Ellis C. Cuevas

It is common sense for motorists to turn headlights on whenever road conditions are bad because of rain or fog.

On Thursday around 8 a.m. it was raining pretty bad and it was one of those dark and dreary mornings.

I was surprised at the number of vehicles on Highway 90 running without lights or even parking lights on.

The amount of traffic on the highway was almost bumper to bumper and driving conditions were very poor at the time.

It seems all motorists should be more cautious and turn on their headlights in those conditions.

While on the subject of vehicles, Hancock County Sheriff Ronald Peterson reports his department will be setting up road blocks beginning this week to check for proper licenses, tags, equipment, etc.

This is an annual affair by the sheriff's department and I realize it may cause some inconvenience, but it is one way to make sure everyone has proper tags, etc.

Peterson said his department is receiving numerous complaints about residents with out-of-state tags.

One thing I would suggest to all motorists—please check your inspection stickers, as they may have expired and you do not realize it.

Some of the road blocks will be at night, and the deputies will be checking on one of my favorite gripes, 'one-eyed' vehicles.

Safe motoring to all.

It was a large turnout for Hancock Medical Center's health screening station at the Community Center on Highway 43 Wednesday morning.

The new service is in cooperation with the North Hancock Business and Professional Association.

Free blood pressure, weight and review of current health status are being offered to Kiln residents on a weekly basis.

Other free services will also be offered during the year.

The blood pressure, weight and reviewing the current health status is scheduled from 8:30 a.m. until noon on Wednesdays.

If you live in Kiln, you may want to take advantage of the HMC special service, because the continuance of it will depend on the community's response.

Among those attending the opening Wednesday were Hancock Business and Professional Association members, all of the Hancock County Board of Supervisors, Hancock Medical Center officials, HMC Auxiliary members, the sheriff, chancery clerk and Kiln residents.

Congratulations are in order for Andy Elchos of Waveland who was named Officer of the Year for District 5 by the Mississippi Department of Wildlife, Fisheries and Parks.

I have known Elchos for many years and I know he is very deserving of his prestigious award.

Keep up the good work, Andy.

EYES ON MISSISSIPPI

By Bill Minor

State Auditor Patterson wants to do statewide performance audit

State Auditor Steve Patterson is so passionate about his plan for a statewide performance audit of state government that he says if the Legislature will turn him loose, he'll produce $50 in savings for every dollar lawmakers invest in the study.

Patterson wants $1.5 million out of the Legislature to fund a comprehensive performance evaluation of programs in five areas of government — education, public safety, health and human services, economic development and regulatory agencies.

At the same time, says Patterson, the audit team would evaluate systems of state planning, budgeting, personnel, purchasing, telecommunications and information processing.

Measuring performance and results from governmental programs is something Mississippi has never done before, Patterson contends, while an increasing number of other states have undertaken such audits with a great deal of success and savings to taxpayers.

As a number of legislators no doubt will be quick to point out, Patterson is not exactly correct to say that performance and end results of state agencies' and departments' programs here have never been measured before.

The Legislative PEER (Performance, Evaluation and Expenditure Review) has been in business for 20 years, and about 40 percent of their reports have dealt with performance of state agencies. Patterson maintains that PEER is essentially an investigative arm, whereas his proposed audit of programs would be much broader, going all the way to measuring outcome.

"This (his proposal) is not another exercise that promises to root out waste, fraud and abuse without instilling practical processes, applications and measurable results," the auditor maintains.

"If you don't know what is working and what is not, you can't make intelligent decisions as to where and how to spend your money," he added.

(In fairness to the PEER Committee, it must be pointed out that last year PEER completed a massive, two-volume performance audit of the State Department of Education which evaluated end results both at administrative and student levels, complete with a break out of performance by individual grades and schools. Sadly, the report, despite containing some startling data, received little attention from legislators or the press.)

Patterson, who received only mild response to his proposal when he went before the Legislative Budget Committee, is setting out around the state to contact every legislator individually to support his performance audit plan, together with the necessary funding.

He's evidently getting the attention of several important figures in the Legislature, among them Lt. Gov. Eddie Briggs and House Speaker Tim Ford. They are taking several dozen lawmakers to the Lyndon Baines Johnson Library in Austin next week for a seminar on the highly regarded Texas state government performance review, which the Texas state comptroller directed.

Mississippi lawmakers, though apparently amenable to the idea of a performance audit of state governmental services, could opt to hand the assignment — and the funding — to the Legislature's own PEER Committee rather than to Patterson.

Even if he directs the performance audit, Patterson has confirmed that he would have to contract with a private auditing firm to do the bulk of the work. Some legislative observers contend PEER could handle the audit just as well if allowed to contract with an outside firm.

Besides, some legislators are wary that the politically-ambitious Patterson may be pushing the performance audit idea to enhance his political agenda.

Patterson last week said he is "putting my career on the line" that he can produce eye-popping results if he is put in charge of the performance audit. If his proposal is rejected by the Legislature, the wily state official intimated that he would go public and make it a statewide political issue.

South Mississippi gets over half of state's total military construction budget

I am pleased to announce that out of the $47 million appropriated for Mississippi military construction projects, South Mississippi will get the lion's share. The Military Construction Appropriations bill, recently agreed upon by House and Senate conferees, approved more than $25.3 million to upgrade facilities at Keesler Air Force Base in Biloxi, Camp Shelby in Hattiesburg, and the Seabee base and Air National Guard Combat Readiness Training Center in Gulfport.

The noncontroversial conference report is expected to be approved by Congress in the next few weeks, and then sent to the President for his signature.

Once approved, the project includes $5 million for a vehicle wash facility at the National Guard's Camp Shelby, and $6 million for Phase I construction of a regional school training facility at the Hattiesburg base. The state-of-the-art facility will include barracks areas for squad and platoon level personnel, administrative work areas, classrooms, libraries, dining rooms and medical room.

The measure also appropriates $8.7 million for Keesler Air Force Base to upgrade several of the base's facilities. The Air Force base would receive $690,000 to build a fire training facility, $2.9 million to upgrade the sewer system, $600,000 for underground fuel storage tanks and $4.5 million to upgrade a student dormitory.

Other construction funds include $1.2 million to upgrade the electrical system and replace underground fuel storage tanks at the Air Guard Combat Readiness Training Center in Gulfport.

Also, Gulfport's Seabee Construction Battalion could receive $4.4 million to build a much needed family service center and child development center.

I am pleased the conference committee has approved these vital projects. These upgrades will assure the best possible training our nation's military men and women can get. And assure that South Mississippi's bases retain the reputation as having the finest and best training facilities anywhere in the country.

How long, Mississippi?

Results of the recent national survey of reading skills among public school students were disappointing. More than two-thirds of the fourth, eighth and 12th graders tested lacked proficiency in reading.

Adding frustration to the disappointment for Mississippians was the Sept. 20 editorial of the Los Angeles Times which commented:

"Especially dismaying was the performance by fourth graders in California. They tied with children in Mississippi—which has traditionally placed at or near the bottom in tested educational skills—as the nation's worst readers."

How long, Mississippi, are you going to be willing to be the bad example of education for America?

Taxpayers are pumping millions of dollars into education—some 62 percent of the total state General Fund Budget goes for education.

The state "reformed" education in the early 1980s.

Still, Mississippi is at the foot of the class.

States with significantly lower per pupil expenditures are outperforming Mississippi in the classroom.

How long, Mississippi, how long?

Casino announces theatre complex will seat 1,872

BY RANDY PONDER

Construction is underway on Grand Casinos, Inc. Biloxi Theatre complex, which is expected to open in April of next year.

The theatre will seat 1,872 in two configurations. The first floor, arranged in showroom cabaret seating, will seat 970 at tables and in booths with tableside cocktail service. The second floor will be a balcony featuring 902 theatre chair seats.

"In order for the Mississippi Gulf Coast to become one of the premier destination resorts in the world, it needs six essential elements," stated Grand Casinos, Inc. chairman of the board, Lyle Berman.

Those elements include first class casinos, quality food and hotels, major entertainment, adequate on-site parking and family-oriented activities. "It is this mix of ingredients that will define the Gulf Coast as a world class destination resort area long into the future," Berman added.

The $10 million dollar project is a joint venture between Grand Casinos, Inc. and Casino Resource Corporation (CRC).

Jack Pilger, chief executive officer of CRC also announced plans to build a second theatre and entertainment complex next door to the Gulfport Grand Casino.

"Our company is proud to be a strategic partner with Grand Casinos in making Mr. Berman's vision of providing the Biloxi and Gulfport areas with the finest destination resorts on the Gulf Coast a reality," Pilger stated.

"With some 23 casino licenses pending and seven already granted in Harrison County alone, there will be substantial demand for a consistent entertainment product otherwise not available on the Coast.

"We expect to take advantage of the casino patron's demand for entertainment beyond the gaming table or the slot machine by offering first-rate family entertainment," Pilger added.

The theatre will feature a broad range of entertainment with emphasis on county/western.

"We will have leading entertainers such as Dolly Parton, Kenny Rogers, Reba McEntire, Ronnie Milsap, Willie Nelson and Ray Charles," said Allen Henson, CRC vice president of entertainment.

Henson said the theatre's 50' X 35' stage will feature state-of-the-art production support along with two star dressing rooms and accommodations for band, case and crew. It will utilize a "fly space" for additional lighting trusses, stage drops, cyclorama and stage sets.

The lobby area will feature a box office with three ticket outlets, a gift shop, bar, concessions and restrooms. The building is approximately 62,000 square feet and will also house theatre offices, a conference area and a bar service area.

The theatre will operate on a six-day-per-week basis, presenting one to two shows daily. Superstar presentations, as well as boxing events, will occur every five to six weeks. Ticket prices are expected to range between $18.50 and $25, with the exception of superstar presentations. All seats will be reserved.

Hebert addresses T&G

BY ELLIS CUEVAS

Public Service Commissioner Curt Hebert Jr. was the featured speaker at the Hancock County Tourism & Gaming Association on Thursday.

He discussed rates and service and the affects of gaming on utility companies along the Coast.

One of three Public Service Commissioners in the state, Hebert's territory includes 27 southern counties.

The commission also has a motor carrier division which enforces highway safety, dealing with trucks, 18-wheelers, buses, Federal Express and UPS vehicles, down to wreckers.

In commenting on utility rates which include sewer, electricity and telephone, Hebert said, "There are two sides to rates. There is strictly the service side and the rate side. A rate is only as good as its service.

"If you don't have service, what good is a rate? You've got to have a rate at a level where you can have quality service and that is what we are trying to do."

Hebert said he has six investigators. When his office receives a call, they try to respond within 24 hours.

"On the electric side, as far as casinos go, there has been no impact on electric use. There is enough generating power there. They did have to add some additional equipment, but they pay for it in the most part up front," Hebert stated.

He said Mississippi's electric rates are 48% below the national average.

On telephone connections for Hancock, Harrison & Jackson counties, there were more in the 4th quarter of 1992 than the previous three quarters.

Hebert said he did not see any adverse effects on telephone charges for household consumers, even if all the casinos would up and leave.

He said the biggest user of electricity is Chevron in Jackson County.

Hebert said he started a drug interdiction program last year in the transportation industry. He told of a $1.5 million bust on I-10 just recently involving crack, cocaine, marijuana and heroin.

There have been 78 felony arrests since January 1 statewide, with 74 of them being in the southern district.

The Tourism and Gaming Association meets the third Thursday of each month at the Waveland Resort Inn's Galley Restaurant.

Veterans' hiring preference

The Office of Personnel Management has issued an interim regulation changing the definition of which veterans are eligible for preferential hiring under the law.

Previously, though all post-Vietnam veterans were eligible, a Vietnam-era veteran had to have a compensable, service-connected disability, a separation from active duty for disability incurred or aggravated on duty, or a campaign or expeditionary medal for Vietnam service.

Now, any Vietnam-era veteran, with or without those criteria, is eligible for hiring under the readjustment law.

The change came about because of concerns that post-Vietnam veterans were able to take federal jobs for which Vietnam-era veterans were considered ineligible. OMP asked Congress to put all veterans on the same footing with qualifying for Veterans Readjustment Act hiring.

Hornets swarm Rocks 62-7

BY TRACI BONNEY
Apparently, football players in Hancock County are fatally allergic to Hornets.

The St. Stanislaus Rock-aways joined the Tigers and the Hawks on the East Central victim list Friday as the Hornets completed their domination of local football teams. One bright spot in the Rocks' homecoming game came early in the fourth quarter, when Brandon Benoit ran 65 yards for St. Stanislaus's only score of the night. Flags were thrown on the play, and the penalty was against the home team, but it didn't nullify the score.

It did affect the PAT kick by moving the ball back, but the only real consequence was that the penalty delayed the kick a few seconds, since the 35-yard PAT attempt was good.

The Rocks' score came with 9:05 left on the game clock and 55 points already to the Hornets' credit.

Coach Larry Ramsey said, "We lost to a team that out-classed us in every way. They were a much better team; they deserve to be ranked where they are."

"They got us on our heels early, and we just couldn't recover from it."

The Hornets, ranked 11th in the state, set the pace of the Tigers take Hawks

Shabazz interceptions pave way for 17-13 win

BY JIMMIE BREWER
The Bay High Tigers on a cold damp night put together a total team effort, led by Wali Shabazz's three interceptions, Friday to spoil the Hancock Hawks homecoming game.

The Tigers evened their record to 4-4 as they held on for a 17-13 victory over the 4-5 Hawks.

The game included several prime time plays including a 51-yard interception return for a touchdown by Shabazz, a 70-yard punt by Bay High's Raleigh Murphy to the Hawk one yard line, and a 58-yard touchdown run by the Hawks J.J. Hayes.

The Tigers never trailed as they struck first; however, the Hawks pulled even in the second quarter on a long scoring run.

Bay High scored twice in the second quarter and went into halftime with a 14-7 lead. Neither team managed a score in the third quarter. A touchdown by the Hawks and a field goal by the Tigers in the fourth quarter ended the scoring.

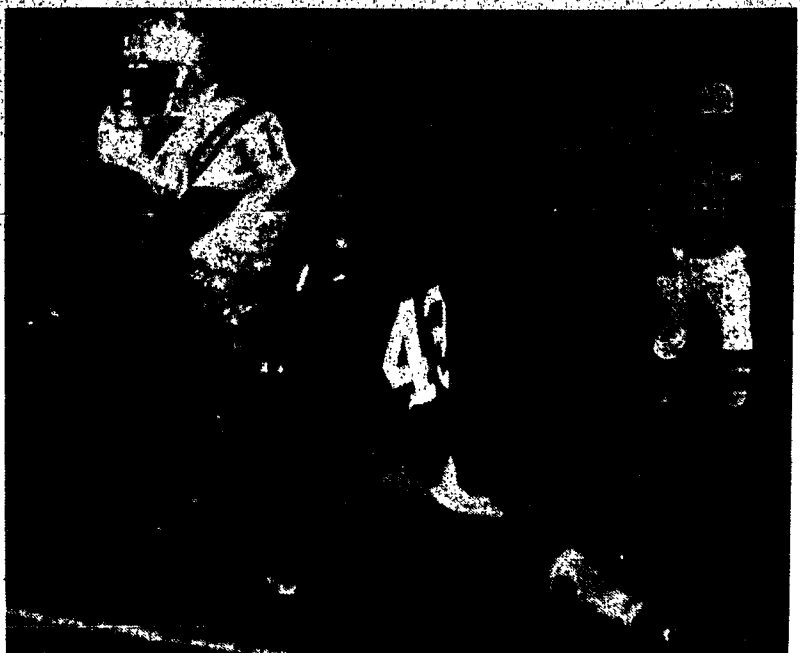

Bay High shut the Hawks down on their first possession; it looked as if Hancock would do the same to the Tigers, but on a punting situation the Tigers' Raleigh Murphy bobbled the snap from the center and ran for a first down.

The Hawks offense never touched the ball again in the first quarter as the Tigers used a ball control run attack and marched the ball 61 yards behind Bay High's quarterback Sam Sheppard.

The drive resulted in a touchdown as Dwayne Antoine scored on a three yard run up the middle. The PAT by Sean Keener was good and the Tigers led 7-0 with 11 minutes left in the half.

The Hawks would retaliate quickly just two plays later as J.J. Hayes broke free on the right side and rambled untouched 58 yards to the endzone. Antonio Carillo added the extra point and tied the score at 7-7.

The momentum would change on the next possession as Tiger punter Murphy booted the ball 70 yards to the Hawk one. The Hawks were forced to punt from their own 14 and the ball stuck in the mud at the time score was Tigers 14, Hawks 7.

The third quarter showed impressive defense on both sides as neither team was able to push the ball in the end zone.

The fourth quarter opened with Bay High in possession and driving down the field. The Hawks kept the Tigers out of the end zone and forced a 20-yard field goal by Sean Keener, increasing the lead to 17-7.

As time was slipping away, Hawk quarterback Scotty Davis connected with Brian Lindsay for a 45-yard pass. A touchdown was saved as Sam 34-yard-line.

On a third and nine, Hancock High's Lance Wedgeworth intercepted a Sam Sheppard pass deep in their own territory.

Then as the Hawks were driving down field, Shabazz picked off a Scotty Davis pass attempt.

Behind impressive blocking by Malcolm Day, Shabazz darted 51 yards for 6 points as time expired in the first half. The PAT was good and the half-

Sheppard of the Tigers ran down Lindsay at the Tiger 16.

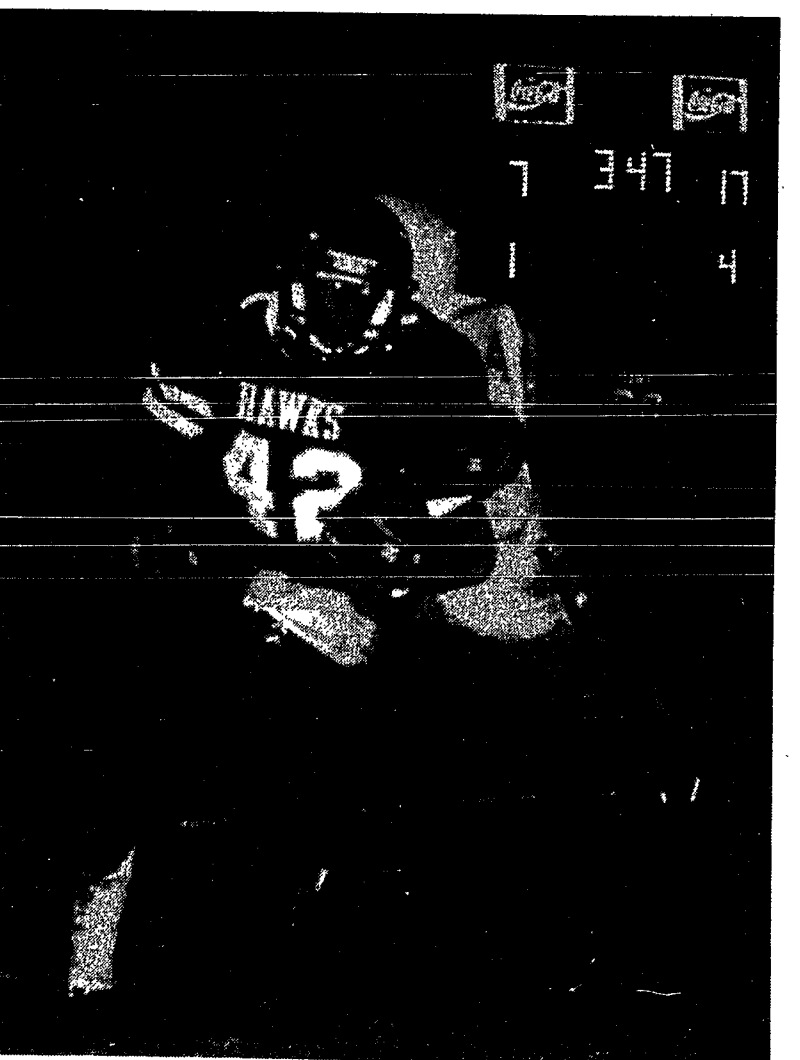

On the very next play Shabazz would get his third interception of the game to thwart a Hawk drive.

The Hawks got the ball back with two minutes in the game, Davis again drove the Hawks down the field. With one minute left on the clock Davis hit a wide open Marlon Allen for a 15-yard touchdown. The two point conversion failed and the score remained 17-13.

An on-side kick by the Hawks was recovered by the Tigers, who left the clock runoff on the last two plays of the game.

Tiger head coach Rocky Gaudin was pleased to have won his second straight game and praised the Hancock football team saying "The Hawks fought hard and never gave up. I knew it was going to be a good game, they're a good team. They just need to keep their heads up."

Bay High travels to Long Beach and the Hawks face Pearl River Central in high school football action next week.

Golfers galore

Diamondhead plays host to WGSA tournament

BY AMY PICKICH

A little rain didn't stop 128 golfers, age 50 and older from competing in the Women's Southern Golf Association 8th Senior Amateur Tournament Oct. 19-21.

However, the event, played on the Cardinal Course in Diamondhead, was cut one day short because of the weather. Golfers traveled from 15 southern states and the District of Columbia to compete.

WINNERS

The format, Championship Flight through Flight 7 by handicap, was two days of stroke play with shotgun start.

Overall winner in the championship flight was Peggy Brass of Orlando, Fla., with a two-day score of 144. This is Brass' third year as overall winner.

The Super Senior award went to Gloria Ellers of Alabama with a low gross score of 108. The Super Senior group included women age 70 and over. Ellers was also the first flight winner.

Other winners included Lorene Grutchfield, Second Flight; Pave Bryan, Third Flight; Terry Scott, Fourth Flight; Anne O'Brien, Fifth Flight; Sue Noss, Sixth Flight; and Ann Ashbaugh, Seventh Flight.

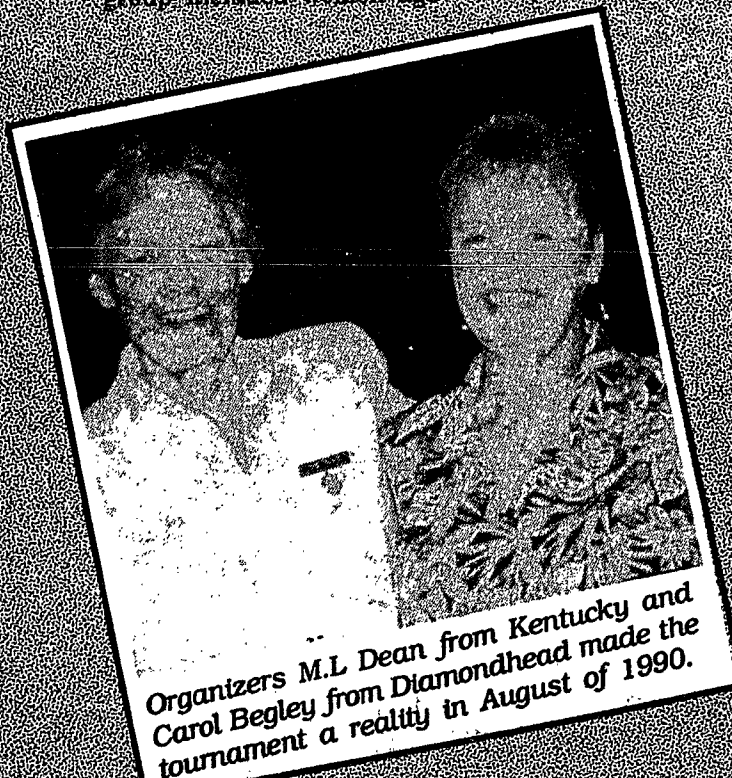

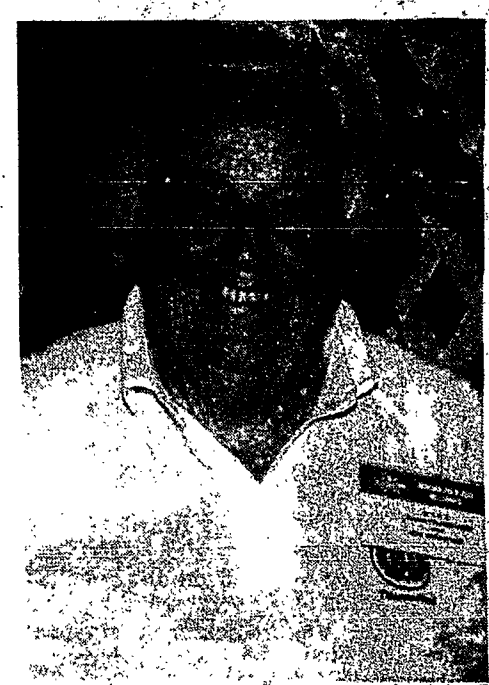

This is the second year in a row the tournament was played in Mississippi. Last year's tournament was in Jackson.

The WGSA, organized in 1911, is the second oldest women's amateur golf association.

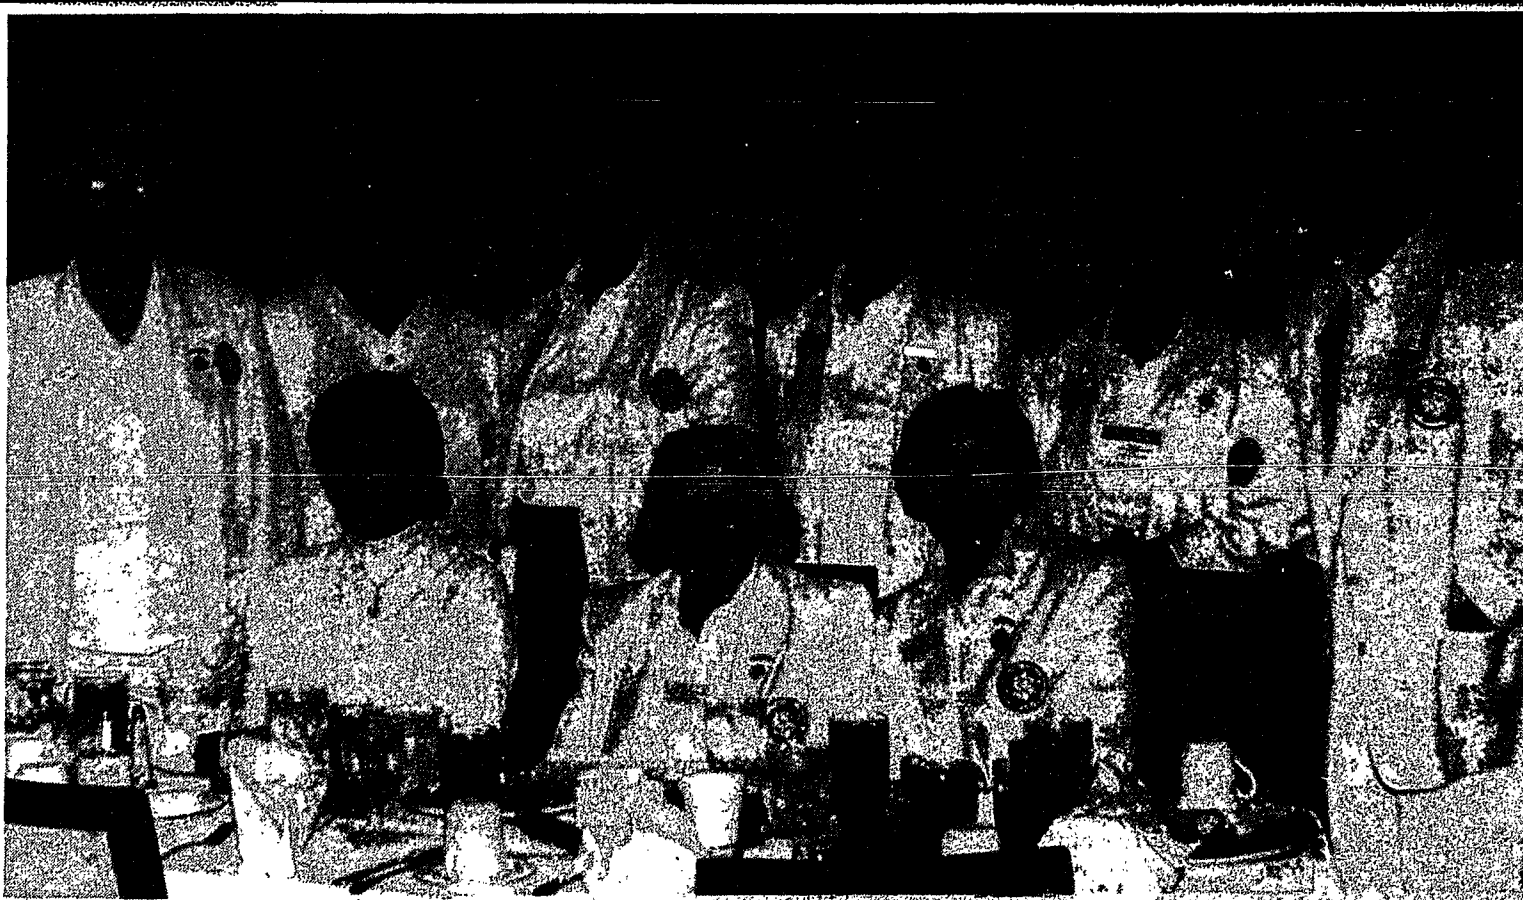

The tournament concluded with an awards luncheon Wednesday at the Diamondhead Country Club. Ladies National Golf Association members were also on hand for the event.

Part of the money collected for the tournament goes toward a scholarship program.

Eula Rome of Memphis made the only hole in one of the tournament. She hit a hole-in-one on the fourth hole, 114-yards across water. Rome was recently honored with a field dedicated to her at Memphis State, where she retired after 36 years with the college.

Organizers M.L. Dean from Kentucky and Carol Begley from Diamondhead made the tournament a reality in August of 1990.

COOKING UP A STORM

By Katy McGuire Caire

The versatile-in-cookery onion, so pungent and aromatic, adds, as we all know, fine flavor to "perk up" roasts, casserole, salads, soups and stews and so on and on.

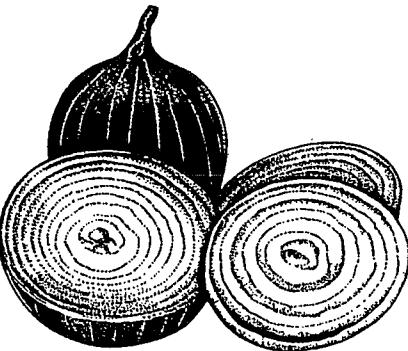

But, it also stands on its own as a vegetable, not only a seasoning, although too few cooks seem to realize the fact and make better use of the onion.

And, would you believe it, the onion, that underground bulb, is a member of the lily of the valley family, along with the tulip? A "rose by any other name and all that sort of thing?"

The word "onion" derives from the French through Latin, because of its single-shaped bulb. It was honored by the ancient Egyptians as the symbol of the universe; and slaves building the Great Pyramids of Egypt, so history tells us, existed on a diet of onions, garlic and radishes. Healthful, I'm sure, but how conducive to making and keeping friends?

America's Indians enjoyed onions, too, even before the white man came; and in my somewhat prejudiced opinion, far too few cookbooks list many onion recipes. Many a gourmet cook will tell you that a whole onion, properly seasoned and cooked, is a delicious treat. Perhaps the onion is taken for granted because onions are so readily available year 'round, as well as cheap.

A tasty dish, a bit out of the ordinary, is this:

FRENCH STUFFED ONIONS

6 onions, peeled
1/2 ground beef, ham or chicken or sausage
2 strips bacon, chopped or diced
1/2 cup sour cream
1 Tbsp. or a bit more of chopped celery or chives and parsley
1 cup soft bread crumbs (Don't toast 'em this time)
Butter or margarine
1 cup stock or bouillon

Parboil the onions for 10 minutes or so, until tender. Scoop out the centers, set the shells aside, and chop the pulp which you've removed. Saute this with the ground meat and bacon, and add all other ingredients except the butter and bouillon.

Stuff the onion shells with the mixture, dot with butter and bake in a shallow casserole or baking pan, into which you've first poured the bouillon, in a preheated 400-degree oven, for 45 minutes. (Six servings).

These are also tasty cooked on the barbecue pit or grill with all the other delectables — just wrap in heavy foil, before cooking, individually or together.

And, here's an old, old French recipe, updated by using aluminum foil instead of parchment paper:

ONIONS EN PAPILOTE

For each serving, peel and core a large bermuda onion (or other onion) as you would an apple. Salt and pepper to taste, and place a beef bouillon cube and a pat of butter in the center of each onion. Wrap each in a large square of aluminum foil and bake in a 400-degree oven for an hour (or an hour and half if onions are extra large). Most complimentary to roast beef, chicken and so on. I sometimes sprinkle Parmesan cheese atop before serving — good!

Dessert combines pumpkin, angel food

FLUFFY PUMPKIN ANGEL TORTE

1 package Betty Crocker 1-step white angel food cake mix

1/2 cup canned pumpkin
2 teaspoons ground cinnamon

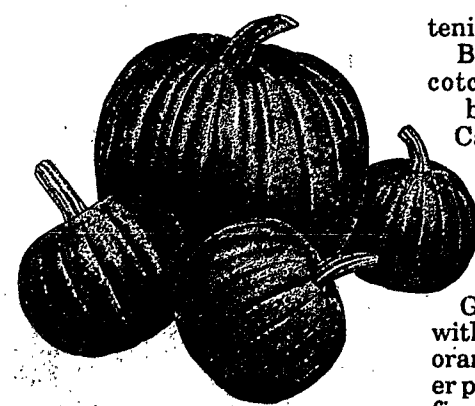

1 teaspoon ground ginger
1/2 teaspoon ground cloves
1/2 package (5.2-ounce size) whipped topping mix (2 envelopes)

1/4 cup canned pumpkin
Ground nutmeg, if desired
Candy Leaves (below), if desired

Orange peel, if desired
Heat oven to 350°. Prepare cake mix as directed on package — except remove 1 cup of the cake batter. Fold 1/2 cup pumpkin, cinnamon, the ginger and cloves into the 1 cup batter. Fold the pumpkin-batter mixture into the remaining cake batter. Bake and cool as directed.

Prepare topping mix as directed on package — except use skim milk. Fold 1/4 cup pumpkin into whipped topping (mixture will be soft).

Split cake to make 3 layers. To split, mark side of cake with toothpicks and cut with long, thin serrated knife.) Fill layers with about 1 cup whipped topping mixture. Frost cake with remaining whipped topping mixture. Sprinkle with nutmeg. Garnish with Candy Leaves and orange peel. Refrigerate any remaining torte.

CANDY LEAVES

Heat butterscotch-flavored chips and a little shortening (about 1 teaspoon shortening to 1/2 cup chips) until melted. Drizzle on the backs of washable artificial leaves with a spoon; let dry. Heat semisweet chocolate chips and a little shorttening until melted. Brush evenly over butterscotch, completely covering backs of leaves; let dry. Carefully peel off leaves.

How to Prepare Fresh Pumpkin

Good pumpkin taste starts with a pumpkin that's bright orange with a firm rind. Smaller pumpkins are more tender. A five-pound pumpkin yields about 4 1/2 cups of mashed, cooked pumpkin, the amount needed for two 9-inch pies.

• Halve or quarter pumpkin and scoop out seeds and strings.

• Cut into smaller pieces and cut rind away.

• To cook on range top: Place pumpkins in pan with a small amount of water. Cover and cook until tender. Drain, mash and let drain again in a strainer to remove excess liquid.

• To bake: Cut into pieces and bake in an ungreased baking dish pan in a 305° oven for 40 to 50 minutes.

Southwestern influence

Earrings, necklaces and bracelets in silver and glass accessorize the Southwestern look from The Kid Company in Bay St. Louis.

Balancing menswear trends this season

Runways for fall balance new menswear trends, nostalgia trips and '70s revivals with fashions that assign equal time and importance to price and value.

With the economy sputtering along and the gridlock in Washington offering no clear plan as to future policies, MFA says the fashion community is continuing to generate new styles, colors and novelty ideas, yet modifying them to satisfy the public's tilt toward essentials.

Here are some of the highlights in the menswear forecast for the season:

Flannel flair

Derived from the Welsh word "gwanen," flannel is a loosely woven fabric with a napped surface, constructed of pure wool or wool blended with polyester, rayon and cotton. Flannel trousers date back to 1918 and reached the peak of their popularity in 1929 in Palm Beach with light, bright tones as well as patterns. The gray flannel suit was mainstay of the "Bold Look" in 1948.

This past year, flannel became associated with the "grunge" movement, which today survives largely in flannel shirts. Price ranges vary, making flannel a realistic fashion statement. Uses of flannel begin in the bedroom with pajamas and robes, move to the boardroom in suits, and even to the outdoors with linings in jackets and parka hoods. A soft, luxurious fabric, it feels comfortable to the touch.

Grounds of navy and gray become enlivened with brights and soft muted tones in stripes, plaids and checks. Sleepwear, streetwear, outerwear and tailored clothing are the categories.

Treatments and trims

The most visible treatment in menswear is the zipper. The patent for the zipper was issued in 1893 and first appeared on men's shoes, though it wasn't until 1930 that it was used on men's trousers. The word "zipper" was created by the B.F. Goodrich Co. in 1922.

Detailing makes the difference and gives added fashion value when it comes to item dressing. Designers have used contracting fabrics to trim garments, added whipstitching to give textural interest, and placed zippers for fantasy as well as function. Paris runways paraded heavy industrial zippers on vest, shirts, sport jackets and sweaters.

Shades of brown

During the 1930s, brown was the most popular color in suits and sport jackets. Not until President Ronald Reagan took office did brown regain a position in menswear.

Monochromatic dressing carries over from fall '92, and designers have capitalized on brown to continue this one-color dressing. American designers cite many tones of brown in their collections — tobacco, cappuccino, chocolate and mocha.

Categories include leather and suede outerwear, suits and sport coats, accessories and shirts.

Log cabin classics

In 1963 the National Outerwear and Sportswear Association observed that outerwear has become a 12-month business. Eight outerwear categories were outlined by NOSA, and in today's market, fashion starts on the outside.

The 33-inch jacket (hooded or toggled) appears in European and American collections. The rugged outdoorsman never looked better. Combinations of leather, suede and fabric in novel patterns create new outerwear looks. Layered sportswear takes a textured approach in everything from corduroy to brushed wools to thermal knits, Buffalo checks and ombre plaids are the lumberjack look this season.

Inspired by the Northwest, natural tones are complemented with rustic shades of brown and gray, and accented with greens, burgundies and golds in such categories as outerwear, denim, sportswear, shoes, caps and sweaters.

A RELAXED ATTITUDE FOR FALL

Be creative

Multicultural influences
update your wardrobe for fall

As designers interpret couture for fall '93, fashion plays roulette with multicultural influences and ethnic overtones. From the intensity of Russia's "Zhivago" to the quintessential romantic, past eras are catalysts to present styles.

While women with more conservative tastes often vocalize the impracticality of some of high fashion's more daring, outlandish designs, the approach this season is an unconstructed and loosely interpreted manner of dressing. This fall, designers provide the "tools" for women to wear any way they want.

The trend is toward layering Bohemian mixtures of silks, velvets and tweeds of yesteryear over modern-day body-forming spandex — in a way that's completely fluid, comfortable and very wearable.

Also, hemlines are once again undefined, and several designers are incorporating asymmetric hemlines into their collections. Wide-legged pants and bell-bottoms are most definitely in.

Ralph Lauren this time around used elements from the past woven into a totally contemporary pattern. By matching filmy black side-wrapped skirts with tailored jackets, velvet tunics belted over tights and boots, and great coats edged in fake Persian lamb with fake fur chechias (tall Cossack hats worn in a Russian winter), he created a look that's graceful, imaginative and sharp.

Neither was the ethnic pattern lost on Oscar de la Renta, who resurrected color in his knits, and combined them with quilted coats, challis dresses and combat boots. Tailored jackets were paired with knitted vests and velvet pants for a fresh look on the "suit." His eveningwear revealed lots of Edwardian ruffled collars and cuffs on velvet tunics, as well as knitted cashmere pullovers with big, iridescent taffeta skirts.

Meanwhile, Calvin Klein got comfortable with lots of pared-down pieces and plenty of "slouch," with soft cardigan jackets and full pants; while Donna Karan's street-wise look of and layer upon layer — aged leathers, huge sweaters — was not just the hallmark of the DKNY collection, but rang true to the feeling of the whole season: Go ahead and wear it any way you want.

Romantic

A sandwashed silk poet blouse and handbeaded velvet vest project a feminine look when coupled with Stacie Humphreys' long black hand embroidered skirt trimmed with fringe. Shoes by Sam and Libby complete the look from the new Josephine's Room at Yellowbird in Bay St. Louis.

Simple accessories compliment 'minimal' clothing designs

This fall, fashion designers are making strong statements with simple, "minimal" clothing designs. Even the popular romantic and exotic looks for this season include basic designs. In fact, the lines of the clothes are in some cases so simple, many women are using real jewelry to create a focal point.

The minimal look can be achieved with long shirts worn untucked under vests, tunics and sweaters. And neutral colors for these fashions are all the rage on runways.

Jewelry styles are adapting to these fashion dictates. Bold and oversized jewelry—but simple in design—complement this fashion best and stand out on any ensemble.

Suitable jewelry pieces, according to the Jewelers of America (JA), the national trade association that provides consumer information about fine jewelry, are brooches, long pendants and bold, yet understated, earrings.

A romantic look is also popular for fall. The running favorites are antique prints and long, sheer and lacy fabrics. Long, fluid dresses in soft, pale colors and pantsuits in flowing fabrics are popular items.

Jewelry designs exude this same soft, almost whimsical, feel. Pearls, antique beads, cameos, floral and nature motifs, and enamel accents all complement this look.

Exotic prints are also popping up for fall. Pantsuits, dresses and loungewear with intricately detailed patterns and prints in bright colors make a strong statement.

The best jewelry to go with these bold designs have an African, Oriental and Eastern European flare. It's the dramatic, colorful and textured jewelry that suits these styles.

Appropriate looks include earrings and bracelets with dangling charms, matte finished metals, coins and medallions, and carved gems. Multi-colored designs also complement the wild look.

WHAT'S YOUR FAVORITE STYLE?

Footwear

Taking shape for fall

No more a mere accessory to fashion, shoes are a main attraction this season. Shape and structure are the buzzwords for fall's footwear collection.

Sculptural platforms soar: Granny boots and oxfords are grounded on chunky, "trapezoid" heels. Sturdy column heels lend a pedestal effect while creating intriguing angles between foot and floor.

"Industrial, technical, almost architectural in feeling, shoes are the foundation for this season's newest fashions," explains Bill Wyatt, vice president buying director for Kinney.

The look—determined and linear—will balance fall's softer ready-to-wear lines. Wyatt predicts the following styles to be this season's must-haves:

• Tough Enough—This group is the ultimate in "rebel chic." Aggressive shapes in smooth or matte black leather for day—and definitely for night. Platform boots on serious stacked heels to lace up, pull up, zip up and buckle up. They're tough. They're cool. They demand to be noticed. They're pure hard-edge design simplicity—with a complex attitude.

• Influenced by...The Immediate World—"Globalization" goes to our feet as well as our heads this season. A key influence is London—from Dickensian drab to Carnaby Street "mod." Then there are Russian soldiers, East Village bikers, American movie legends, MTV and Carmelite nuns.

Contradictions abound. Just when you think you get it...think again. Serious knee-high boots recall the "Cossacks." Monumental black suede ankle-strap platforms suggest Betty Grable or the Leaning Tower of Pisa. Industrial-strength black leather lug sole oxfords and boots scream MTV, with a touch of "Clockwork Orange."

• Reality Check—For those who appreciate the "classics," Kinney offers beautifully styled options...with a twist. There are woven and smooth-grain leather flats to pair with pants or skirts of any length. The newest color: "politically correct" green. There are also clean-lined, utterly simple man-tailored oxfords and loafers. For those caught somewhere between uptown and downtown, black leather slip-ons on sure-footed "angle stacked" heels are an option.

"There is a revolution in the shape and silhouette for footwear this fall," adds Wyatt.

Finishing touch

Pam Parker of Anthony's Men's Wear helps Rep. J. P. Compretta of Bay St. Louis select a silk tie by Nautica to complement his tweed blazer.
